AUSTRALIA ZOO WILDLIFE WARRIORS

Australia Zoo Wildlife Warriors Worldwide Ltd was initiated by Steve and Terri Irwin in 2002 as a way to include and involve caring people in the support and protection of injured, threatened and endangered wildlife – from the individual animal to an entire species. Australia Zoo provides significant financial support to Wildlife Warriors, enabling 100 per cent of donations to go directly toward conservation projects.

The internationally recognised charity is registered in Australia and the United States. Sponsorships and tax-deductible donations to Wildlife Warriors support the Australia Zoo Wildlife Hospital, the Rescue Unit and various conservation projects throughout Australia and abroad.

SAVING THOUSANDS OF LIVES AT THE AUSTRALIA ZOO WILDLIFE HOSPITAL

The Australia Zoo Wildlife Hospital is now one of the largest and busiest of its kind in the world, treating thousands of animals every year. Open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, it provides a free service to the community as well as educating and inspiring visitors to make a difference to our world through conservation.

DID YOU KNOW?

- On average 6000 wildlife patients are admitted each year
- The majority of patients are victims of car accidents and domestic pet attacks
- Up to 100 koalas can be in care at any one time
- The biggest threat to koalas after habitat loss is chlamydial disease
- The Rescue Unit responds to wildlife emergency calls seven days a week.

WHEN YOU SUPPORT AUSTRALIA ZOO WILDLIFE WARRIORS YOU CONTRIBUTE TO:

Australian Projects
- Conserving grey nurse sharks on the east coast of Australia
- Helping save Australia’s national icon - the koala
- Unlocking secrets about the saltwater crocodile
- Caring for sick, injured and orphaned native wildlife at the Australia Zoo Wildlife Hospital.

International Projects
- Protecting rhinoceros in Kenya
- Educating communities that live with Cambodian elephants
- Saving cheetah in South Africa
- Protecting the last Sumatran tigers
- Monitoring the illegal wildlife trade in South-East Asia.

"It is so important for us to stand together, shoulder to shoulder as wildlife warriors, protecting our incredible wildlife and wild places for future generations. I invite you to join wildlife warriors as a partner and continue Steve’s dream."
